NEW ALTARS

In Holy Cross Church Blessed With Solemn Ceremonies Sunday.

Eloquent Sermon On the Rosary Preached by Rev. Father Heagan.

A Great Crowd Attended the Services and Recited the Rosary.

FATHER YORK PRAISES THE DONORS

Holy Cross church, at Thirty-second and Broadway, was the scene of solemn ceremonies last Sunday afternoon, when the three handsome new altars were blessed. Although the ceremonies did not begin until 4 o'clock, the pretty little church was filled to overflowing half an hour before. The Rev. Father Matthew L. Heagan, O. P., an eloquent young Dominican, began the ceremonies with a sermon on the rosary and the rosary confraternity.

Father Heagan told of the Albigensian heresy in France, of the appearance of St. Dominic, his zeal for the glory of God and the vision in which the Blessed Virgin appeared to him and bade him preach her rosary. Father Heagan then sketched the labors of St. Dominic among the Albigensian heretics and of the annihilation of the heresy. The church, he said, was quick to recognize the efficacy of the rosary and for 700 years it has proven a great blessing to Christianity, a real treasure to grace. The reverend speaker told of the prayers that composed the rosary, the Our Father and the Hail Mary.

In the one Jesus Christ, the second person of the Blessed Trinity, teaches us how to pray—first for the glory of God and secondly for ourselves and our neighbors. In the other we learn the "Hail Mary," a prayer inspired by the words of the archangel, who in his address to her who was to become the mother of God teaches us how to pray for her intercession. And then he told of her answer to this salutation: "Behold the handmaid of the Lord. Let it be done unto me according to thy word." In this her answer resembled the prayer of her Divine Son in his agony in the garden of Gethsemane: "Lord, if it is possible let this chalice pass from me. But Thy will, not mine, be done."

Father Heagan described the significance of the two prayers and told of the fifteen mysteries of the rosary. He said it was an appeal to the people to know Christ, to inflame us with pious sentiments and to move our hearts to love God. In reciting the rosary each prayed for all—all prayed for each. He said that all over the world and at all hours some one was reciting the rosary. What a consolation it should be to members of the confraternity of the rosary when they retire to rest at night to know that somewhere some one was praying for them.

The reverend speaker also paid a high tribute to the Rev. Father Cunningham, pastor of Holy Cross church, and told of the blessings he would bring on his congregation by establishing a branch of the confraternity of the rosary. In closing he read the brief from the Master General of the Dominican order, authorizing him to bless the new rosary altar and to establish the confraternity in that church, at the same time authorizing him to transfer the power of perpetuating the confraternity to Father Cunningham and the conditions under which the rosary altar was to remain privileged. After that Father Heagan blessed the altar.

Immediately following the Rev. Father Thomas A. York, pastor of St. Paul's church, blessed the main altar and St. Joseph's altar and then preached a brief but eloquent sermon on the solemnities. Father York said he wished he had some of the eloquence of Father Heagan, but in deploring his lack of eloquence he became the personification of eloquence and indulged in grand flights of oratory when he came to describe the happiness of the good people who presented the new altars that had just been blessed. He said that God had singled out the donors to receive particular blessings. The recitation of the rosary followed and the ceremonies concluded with the benediction of the most blessed sacrament. The music rendered by the choir added greatly to the solemnity of the ceremonies.
